Cincinnati Times-Star Gives What Purports To Be New Cabinet Decided Upon.

ROOSEVELT ON OHIO SENATORSHIP

Denies He Has Taken Any Part In The Contest Between Burton And Charles Taft For Foraker's Seat In The Senate.

By Associated Press. Cincinnati, O., Dec. 19.—An Augustan, Ohio, special to the Times-Star says: "It can be stated as coming from authentic sources that Knox will arrive in Augustana soon to discuss with Taft the make-up of the remainder of the Taft cabinet. "Judge Taft will submit to him for inspection and approval the following names for the cabinet: "Secretary of state, Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania. "Secretary of the treasury, Myron T. Herrick of Ohio. "Attorney General, George W. Wickersham of New York. "Secretary of war, Charles Macdonald of Ohio. "Secretary of the navy, William L. Dyer of Ohio. "Secretary of the interior, Richard A. Ballinger of Seattle, Wash. "Postmaster general, Frank H. Hitchcock of Massachusetts. "Secretary of agriculture, James M. Wilson of Iowa. "Secretary of commerce and labor, George A. Knight of California. "In what is declared to be an authorized statement to the Times-Star today in a Washington special quote President Roosevelt as denying the published report he had a disagreement with President-elect Taft. "It is stated that he was 'opposed' to Chas. F. Taft's candidacy for the senate, favoring that of Congressman Burton." "The president is said to have authorized the use of his denial.

CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR UNFORTUNATES

New York's Streets Are Packed With Holiday Shoppers—Big Preparations to Help the Poor.

Special to the Gazette. New York, Dec. 19.—New York is at the high tide of the Christmas preparation season just now, and there is not one can be quite sure that the streets are literally packed with holiday shoppers, and from the Battery to the Bronx outward and visible signs are abundant that the Yuletide is at hand. The merchants, as a class, have no complaint to offer over the volume of the holiday trade. In virtually all lines business is reported as considerably better than a year ago.

It is to be a charitable Christmas, too, for institutions and individuals are going deep down into their pockets to dispense Christmas cheer to the homeless and the hungry and the ill-provided with even a more lavish hand than has been seen in former years. The Salvation Army is making its usual elaborate preparations to give the hungry a Christmas dinner. The Volunteers of America, the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and other churches and charitable organizations are preparing to provide free dinners. For those who can't get to the festive that are to be spread Christmas cheer will be distributed in the shape of baskets filled with good things to eat and to wear. Other organizations are preparing to distribute wagon loads of toys and candies to the children of the tenements. In the general round of good things the newshybs will not be overlooked and, of course, the "Stag Children" will be treated to their customary Christmas festival.

NO EXPERIMENTING IN RESUSCITATION

Physician Not to Have Opportunity to Test Theory That Electric Chair Does Not Kill.

Special to the Gazette. Trenton, N. J., Dec. 19.—County Physician Frank G. Seammell is still of the opinion that he will be able to set at rest the dispute that a man who has died in the electric chair does not die there, but under the knife of the surgeon at the subsequent autopsy. But according to the authorities the physician is not likely to have a chance to test his theory next Monday, as he had planned to, in the case of John Mantusana, who is to be electrocuted in the state prison on that date.

ENGLISH QUEEN BUSY CHOOSING HER GIFTS

Tradesmen Are Requested to Send Samples of Their Wares to Buckingham Palace.

Special to the Gazette. London, Dec. 19.—Londoners have been enjoying themselves to the full this week with their Christmas shopping. The streets of holiday goods in the West End shops are larger this year than have been seen in many years, and the shortage of such reported in some quarters does not seem to be reflected among shoppers. If there has been any difference in the business between this year and last, shoppers say that it is in favor of this season. With but four shopping days left before Christmas, all of the large retail establishments find their sales people rushed to the limit, their aisles crowded, and their stocks being rapidly depleted.

The Queen came up from Sandringham this week to do her Christmas shopping. There was a time when she delighted to make the round of the fashionable shops in person, but since she came to the throne she has followed the custom of the late Queen Victoria in having the tradesmen send the choicest samples of their wares to Buckingham Palace from which she may select a myriad of gifts for the members of her immediate family, her numerous relatives on the continent and her close personal friends. Alexandra, it is said, is never so happy as when she is choosing suitable gifts for her grandchildren. No one knows their individual tastes better than she. Several hundred handsomely bound volumes of the photographic snapshots taken by the Queen are to be distributed among her relatives and friends this Christmas. To others she is sending Christmas cards of her own design. King Edward likes who never fails to remember his friends at the Christmas season. The plans of unique design are his favorite gifts, or, for those more advanced in years, a walking stick or a snuff box suitably inscribed.

AMATEUR ATHLETES HOLD INDOOR MEET

Annual Meet Under Auspices of the College of the City of New York Occurs Tonight.

Special to the Gazette. New York, Dec. 19.—The crowd of the amateur athletes of the metropolitan district, together with a number of star performers from Boston, Philadelphia and other points, will convene for the annual meet under the auspices of the College of the City of New York, which takes place tonight in the Twenty-second Regiment armory. The feature of the meet will be a 600-yard scratch event, in which the contestants will include Harry Hillman of the New York Athletic club; Harry Glassing, the great middle-distance runner; Charlie Bacon, the hero of the 400-meter hurdle event in the London Olympic games last summer; and Jim McInnes, the mercury footer, who recently surprised the experts with his wonderful speed.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

Holiday Recess Will Cause Lull in Proceedings of Congress During Coming Week.

Special to the Gazette. Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—The holiday recess will cause a lull in the proceedings of congress during the coming week, but as a majority of the lawmakers have acquired the habit of remaining in Washington since railroad passes were abolished there probably will be enough gossip going round to keep the special correspondents from growing stale. The cabinet members will be busy, important conferences will be held and the house committee on ways and means will probably continue its hearings. Two murder trials that will attract public attention are scheduled to begin Monday. The first is that of Mrs. Catherine Erb and her sister, Mrs. Belhel, who will be tried for the alleged murder of Mrs. Erb's husband, Captain J. Clayton Erb, who was prominent in Philadelphia politics. The second trial will be that of Andrew McGrath, who shot and killed Walter E. Ammon, the "oleomargarine king" in the Pennsylvania railroad station in Jersey City a short time ago.

In observance of the Christmas holidays the stock exchanges, banks and other financial institutions, the courts and a majority of business establishments throughout the country will be closed from Thursday night until Monday morning, while the big folk and little folks throughout the land are in the enjoyment of the Yuletide festivities. On Christmas day there will assemble in the progressive city of Santiago, Chile, a Pan-American scientific congress that promises to be the most notable gathering of its kind ever held in the Western Hemisphere. The United States has sent to the congress a distinguished delegation that includes representatives of Yale, Harvard, the University of Wisconsin, University of Pennsylvania and other educational institutions, the Smithsonian Institute, and the United States army.

Another event of interest in the foreign field will be the assembling of the Japanese fleet, which has been called for next Thursday. The Atlantic battleship fleet, home-based, will conclude its stay at Colombo, Ceylon, and proceed to Suva. The ships will pass through the Suez canal as expeditiously as possible and then the fleet will split into four divisions, each division visiting a different Mediterranean port before reassembling at Gibraltar early in February for the last stretch of the voyage home. The sporting event of the week will be the pugilistic contest at Sydney, Australia, between the two American fighters, Tommy Burns and Jack Johnson. The event takes place Saturday and is advertised as for the heavyweight championship of the world, the title to which has been by common consent accorded to Burns since the retirement of Jeffries.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT METED TO A WOMAN

TWO WOMEN TO BE PLACED ON TRIAL FOR ERB'S MURDER

Wife And Sister Of Dead Man To Stand Trial In The City Of Philadelphia.

Special to the Gazette. Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 19.—What promises to be one of the most notable criminal trials that has taken place in this section in a long time is scheduled to begin in Media next Monday, when Mrs. M. Florence Erb and her sister, Mrs. Catherine D. Belhel, will be tried for the alleged murder of Captain J. Clayton Erb, husband of the former. Captain Erb was a well-known politician, Pennsylvania national guardman and secretary to Israel W. Durham, the republican leader of Philadelphia at the time of the murder. The alleged murder occurred at the Erb country home, Red Gables, in Delaware county, on October 6 last. Shortly before midnight on that date a conclusion from Red Gables hurried to the Mountain House, at Leont, and notified the proprietor of the place that Mrs. Erb wanted help. Constable Simpson of Rockdale went to the house and on the strength of statements made by Mrs. Erb and her sister, Mrs. Belhel, he placed the latter under arrest, charged with murder. The revolver with which Captain Erb was shot was found in Mrs. Belhel's dressing room. There had been a bitter quarrel, and it was said that Mrs. Belhel had fired the shot to protect her sister. Captain Erb was found lying in the hallway on the second floor of the house with a bullet wound in the head. The Delaware county grand jury took up the case with the result that a week ago it returned indictments against Mrs. Erb and Mrs. Belhel, charging them jointly and separately with alleged murder, voluntary and involuntary manslaughter. Revelations following the killing of Captain Erb showed that his relations with his wife and sister-in-law had been strained for some time. Before her marriage to Captain Erb Mrs. Erb was Mrs. W. G. Rothmel, a divorced woman. Their marriage occurred about two years ago. For a time thereafter everything went along smoothly, but for some months prior to the killing of Captain Erb there had been a succession of violent family quarrels. On August 24 last Mrs. Erb caused the arrest of Eugene Paulson, Captain Erb's colored coachman, on a charge of threatening her life. At the hearing of the case she said that she had been informed that Paulson was acting as a spy for Captain Erb, who stood by the coachman at the hearing, as against his wife. He subsequently explained that he did so because he expected to institute proceedings against Mrs. Erb and expected Paulson to be an important witness in the case, in which Mrs. Belhel, Mrs. Erb's sister, also was to be involved. Captain Erb declared at the hearing that he had been duped when he married Mrs. Rothmel, and that her conduct during his absence from home last summer had been improper. Several weeks later Mrs. Erb caused the arrest of her husband on a charge of assault and battery, and he was held for trial. The charges were to have been heard September 30, a week before the date of the alleged murder, but were postponed.

WOMEN GOLFERS ARE GIVEN PROMINENCE

Women's Western Golf Association Begins Campaign in Wisconsin This Next Year.

Special to the Gazette. Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 19.—In order that she may better work for the advancement of golf among Wisconsin women, Miss Olwell of this city, has been named as a member of the executive committee of the Women's Western Golf association, the first time honor has been given to Milwaukee. Miss Olwell has begun a campaign in behalf of the western organization to get all the Wisconsin golf clubs interested in the general association, and in order to assist her in this work by giving her a recognized standing as a representative of the western association, Miss Olwell was given this position. It is the first time, it is said, that a young woman has ever been appointed to this position, and Miss Olwell is regarded as the youngest woman to ever hold a position on this committee. Miss Olwell has been in correspondence with all the clubs in the state which she has been able to reach, and believes that this Wisconsin women will flock to the support of the western organization. So successful does her campaign seem from the replies that she has received, that an effort may be made the coming season to hold a tournament of Wisconsin women golfers in Milwaukee. Miss Olwell hopes to be able to make a sufficiently good showing to persuade the Blue Mound Country club directors to allow the women of the state two days during the season, after the holding of the first tournament for a women's championship of the state. The Milwaukee Country club was the birthplace of the men's championship tournaments, and the Blue Mound club has been the host of a women's tourney. Miss Olwell has not as yet broached the question to the Blue Mound directors, preferring to wait until she can better report on what support the state women will give to the association. In recognition of the work of Miss Olwell, the Women's Western association has decided to award the Blue Mound Country club women's team a home and home match with some one of the Chicago clubs, during the coming season. This is the first time that the women's association has ever awarded such a match to a Wisconsin club. The schedule has not been fixed, nor the name of the team, but the Blue Mounders selected, but Milwaukee will have at least one such match during the season. The Blue Mound women will first play on the Chicago course, it is planned, and then play hostess to the Windy City club in the season. The Blue Mounders also plan to have home and home matches with several Wisconsin clubs on the women's days during the summer of 1909. Sheboygan has already been listed, though no date is set, and an effort will be made to make a match between the Milwaukee and the Blue Mound clubs as much a fixed event for the women as the men's tournament is for the masculine players.

The Chicago clubs each devote one day during the season to team matches between the women of the various clubs, each club in the agreement sending a team of four players, the scoring being for the entire season, with one match a week, and each club being scored in points on the outcome of its various matches. The Blue Mound club women may be included in this arrangement, being placed on a par with the Chicago clubs, but it is hardly likely that the local club will be able to develop enough enthusiasm to make a weekly trip to Chicago, during the entire season. The Chicago women, however, are willing to accept the Blue Mound women on equal terms with their own clubs, and if the Milwaukee club wish to join the association it will be taken on the same terms. While Miss Olwell, through her membership and retaining that still in the soil.

Great Loss in Soil. "If we suppose the accumulated loss of the soils of the United States from natural conditions due to crop-plant, is half that found by Prof. A. H. Whitson of the college of agriculture in the fields tested in Wisconsin, the amount would be 100,000,000 tons of phosphoric oxide, which is the equivalent of 300,000,000 tons of phosphorus rock. Thus, to make good the phosphorus already lost to the soil in the United States by reckless disregard of the future, would require the present output of our mines for more than a century, even if it were possible at once to prevent further depletion of the soil, and no more of our phosphorus rock were required to neutralize the current waste. Prohibit Export of Phosphates. "That nation only can reach the highest intellectual and spiritual level which is well nourished. Nourishment requires food. Food depends upon the necessary elements to feed the plants in the soil. Of those we can see no future danger so far as nitrogen, sodium, and potassium are concerned but because phosphorus is relatively so rare an element, because it has been segregated by the process of nature in so limited an amount, since it is so essential to the growth of both plants and animals, it is clear that we should exercise the utmost foresight in conserving the natural concentrations of phosphorus and retaining that still in the soil."

President Roosevelt Takes Step Urged by President Van Hise at Conservation Congress. Madison, Wis., Dec. 19.—The announcement from Washington that, acting under instructions from President Roosevelt, the secretary of the interior has just withdrawn from entry, selection, and location, all public lands in Wyoming, Idaho and Utah believed to contain phosphate rock, pending appropriate action by congress, has been received here with interest, as this was the step urged by President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin at the recent meeting of the national conservation commission at Washington. "The withdrawal of these valuable phosphate lands as the first step toward the conservation of the mineral phosphates and the retention of them for the use of our own country, is more than sufficient to justify fully the whole conservation movement," said President Roosevelt's action today. "The general and alarming decrease in crop yield per acre in various states recently has been described by Mr. James H. Hill as largely due to the depletion of soil in phosphates. Even the soils of the rich central states, the garden of the United States, are deficient in this important element. In Wisconsin the experimental station investigations showed that, during the past half century, one-third of the original phosphorus of the soil has been lost in the cropped fields. What has been proved in Wisconsin, Ohio, Iowa, and other states where tests have been made, is unquestionably true of other states in the country which have been settled for some time. In what condition will the soils of the United States be as to phosphorus ten or fifteen years hence if this process of depletion be allowed to continue unchecked? Great Loss in Soil. "If we suppose the accumulated loss of the soils of the United States from natural conditions due to crop-plant, is half that found by Prof. A. H. Whitson of the college of agriculture in the fields tested in Wisconsin, the amount would be 100,000,000 tons of phosphoric oxide, which is the equivalent of 300,000,000 tons of phosphorus rock. Thus, to make good the phosphorus already lost to the soil in the United States by reckless disregard of the future, would require the present output of our mines for more than a century, even if it were possible at once to prevent further depletion of the soil, and no more of our phosphorus rock were required to neutralize the current waste. DIAMOND GOOSE

DEVELOPS CLUE

FINDING OF JEWELS BY DELOIT
WOMAN MAY EXPLAIN LOSS OF JEWELS.

Chicago Lady Believes the Diamonds
Found Are Part of Her Jewelry
She Lost Last Summer.

Mrs. F. L. Mercer of Chicago, who lost $1,700 worth of diamonds while automobile driving last summer in Illinois and Wisconsin, has a clue in Deloit that she thinks may lead to the discovery of the gems.

The clue is in the "goose that laid the golden egg"—the one killed by Mrs. Burward Cornwell of that city Thanksgiving day and whose crop contained two small diamonds and a piece of gold.

Several agencies are at work on this strange clue to the mystery of the departed Mercer diamonds. Mr.
Cornwell took his notebook and started on a quest to trace the life history of the "golden goose." He found that circumstantial evidence points accordingly at the new dead bird as having been at large in the neighborhood at the time of the loss. He is still thrilled by the clue.

Montano Frank Mercer, Mrs. Mercer's son, manager of the Evanson Lumber company, who was driving the automobile at the time of the disappearance of the diamonds, today related the first chapter of the mystery, which bids fair, before his final solution is written, to rival the famous
A. Conan Doyle story of "The Adventure of the Blue Carbuncle."

"We were spinning along in the touring car on July 6, 1906, bound for McKorn, Wis. On the back of the car were strapped two suitcases. When we got to Holo, Wis., the woman folks went into a hotel to rest. While working about the machine I discovered that one of the suitcases had broken its fastenings and spilled into the road somewhere. It was unfortunate, I thought, but not a cause for great worry. When I joined the woman folks a few moments later I mentioned to my mother that I would have to buy some clean collars, as the suitcase which she had packed for me had disappeared. My mother went white as a sheet.

"Disappeared," she exclaimed. "All
my diamonds were in that suitcase, Frank!"

"It was so. She had packed not only all her jewels, worth about $1,700, in the missing suitcase, but $250 in bills as well. Leaving the woman at Holo we jumped in the car and sped back over the road we had followed through McHenry county, Illinois.

There was no sign of the suitcase. It had probably spilled into the road with such force that it burst open and scattered its contents over a considerable area. Some farmer probably found it and decided it was too good a thing to mention.

"Well, we continued up to McKorn.
Then we turned around and came right back. My mother could think of nothing but her diamonds. Among them was one beautiful diamond set with seventeen stones. We carefully retraced our former route, inquiring all along the way. Nobody seemed to have heard of the lost suitcase.

When we got home we engaged a detective to get through McHenry county.
His search yielded nothing. Since then my mother has taken the thing in her own hands and made every effort to follow out every shadow of a clue. That's the way she came to write to the man who found the diamonds in the crop of his Christmas goose."

Cornelius Family Amazed

It was the discovery of the goose's glazed by Mrs. Cornwell when preparing the fowl for dinner that led to the discovery of the diamonds and the bit of gold. "The family was amazed. They thought they had discovered the celebrated 'goose that laid the golden egg'."

The investigations of Mr. Cornwell in the role of Sherlock Holmes have revealed the following facts of the history of the goose: The butcher who sold the fowl to Mr. Cornwell bought it with many others from a wholesale dealer at Rockford, Ill. The Rockford firm deals largely with famers living in McHenry county. While a certain identification of the bird has not yet been made, it is thought to have come from a man who lives near a road often frequented by au-tomobilists.

PRESENT GAS PLANT

Owner of Monroe Gas Plant Intends to Make Some Changes in Property.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Monroe, Wis., Dec. 19.—C. E. Gray, of Whitewater, who recently purchased the Monroe gas plant at bankruptcy sale, is contemplating converting it into a coal gas property. Producer gas is now manufactured at the plant but it has not given the best of service and the new owner is desirous of making many improvements on the plant that will bring it up to maximum efficiency. Coal gas contains three heat units to one in producer.
The present ratio of seventy-five cents will probably be doubled in case the alteration is made in the kind of gas.
The producer gas is made from hard coal and gasifier while coal gas is made from soft coal, the principal by-product being coke. The change will not be made until spring.

In State.

Alexander Buchanan who is secretary of the Southern Wisconsin Pontry and Pet Stock association, has received many encouraging replies from the entry blanks and catalogues for the coming show. He believes that the entries will be exceptionally large and that the first annual exhibition of the association at the West Side Hill, January 4 to 9th, inclusive, will be one of the largest held this winter in southern Wisconsin. In answer to one of his letters with entry blanks the following reply was received which is amusing and shows that the affair is given wide publicity:

A BUSY DENTIST

A lady patient from a neighboring city, in my office the other day, said: "What a steady stream of patients you have coming and going. My sister, for whom you have been working lately, told me, 'She never saw anything like it.'"

This is strictly true. In this, the 8th year of my practice in Janesville, I certainly have more people who seem pleased to allow me to take care of their dental needs than I ever had before.

This would not be true in this age of the survival of the fittest if I did not deliver the goods.

I honestly endeavor to do the very best work, and am glad to see that the effort is appreciated.

I believe I have 9-10 of the pain of Dentistry.

And you will believe it also if you consult me for your dental work.

FAINTED TODAY DURING HEARING

FURTHER EXAMINATION WAIVED BY DEFENSE IN ELLSWORTH EXAMINATION.

JUDGE ORDERED A RECESS

District Attorney John L. Fisher Objected as He Had Not Cross-Examined Defendant.

When the examination in the case of the State vs. E. Ellsworth was taken up in the municipal court this morning, Mr. Nolan, who appears for the defendant, springing somewhat of a surprise when he announced that the defense waived further examination. District Attorney Fisher objected to this as the direct examination of the defendant was before the court, and contended that he had the right to cross-examine Mr. Ellsworth.

After a consultation between the judge and the attorneys in the room, a recess was taken until 12:30, when the judge was to give his decision. Mr. Nolan stated that this action was taken by him because he had been unable to procure some rebuttal testimony upon which he had been depending.

Such action means that the defendant intends to stand trial in the matter, before a jury. The examination is conducted in order to determine whether or not the charges which are made in the complaint can be sufficiently substantiated to make it worth while to go to the expense of a trial. If the defendant, in any action of this kind, waives examination it is usually a matter of course for the judge to hold him for trial.

Examination Continued

After the noon recess the district attorney and Mr. Nolan each presented arguments on their side of the proposition, but neither had been able to find any authority. Following the argument Judge Ellfeld decided that the defendant could not after the direct examination was finished waive further examination. The court said that under the statute he was required to include all evidence given in his return and that he felt he would also have to consider it if it was in his return. On those grounds therefore he felt that the prosecution was entitled to the privilege of cross-examining the defendant since the direct examination was all in.

After a short consultation with his attorney, Mr. Ellsworth was again put on the stand and the cross-examination was continued. Mr. Fisher's first few questions related to the contracts signed by Mr. Ellsworth and Mrs. Kennedy, the whereabouts of which Mr. Ellsworth could not remember. In explanation of his memory he said that he was affected with bad headaches which came sometimes several times a month and that these affected his memory somewhat. Mr. Ellsworth, who looked as though he was ill, then asked for a drink, which was brought him. He was unable to read the contracts which were offered to him by Mr. Fisher and they had to be read to him. He admitted signing a contract to build a building factory on the Kennedy farm and said he did not know what became of it. He said that he did not remember having in the presence of Mrs. Kennedy, put them in the stove and burned them up.

Mr. Fisher then began to ask questions regarding Mr. Ellsworth's whereabouts and business before he came to Janesville and the names of firms he had worked for. The defendant named a number, among them the Hawley Nursery company, B. E. Fields of Freeport, Neb., D. J. Fogarty of Council Bluffs, Iowa, J. J. Cravatte of Burlington, Iowa, and a Mr. Bandy of Indianapolis.

Ellsworth Faints
Shortly after three o'clock a short recess was declared by the court. Mr. Ellsworth got out of the witness stand and suddenly turning pale he staggered and fell prostrate upon the floor. He was soon revived, however, and after the recess the court then declared an adjournment until ten o'clock Monday morning.

While standing in the clerk's office just before going out the door, Mr. Ellsworth again fainted, this time so that he was unconscious for quite a time. He was then carried out and placed in a carriage and he was taken to his home where medical assistance was summoned.

FIFTEEN DAYS FOR TAKING OVERALLS

Nelson Hanson Was Unable to Pay Fine of $15 and Costs and Was Sent Down Today.

Upon pleading guilty to the charge of stealing a package containing six jackets and six pairs of overalls from the St. Paul depot yesterday afternoon, Nelson Hanson was fined $15 and costs this morning by Judge Ellfeld and being unable to pay was sent to the county jail for fifteen days.

J. B. Maynard of Milton Junction had purchased the goods and had left the package on a seat in the depot while he was waiting for a train. The police were informed of the loss by Mr. Maynard and Mr. Macdonald, who had seen a man hiding a package in his coat shed, also telephoned to the station. The man was soon found sitting in the St. Paul depot by Officer Fanning, holding a newspaper up in front of his face, and later the goods were found in Macdonald's coat shed near the Five Points. This morning in court Hanson said that his home was in Stockholm, that he had been working on the section and that he was drunk when he took the package.

A young man came into the police station this morning and said that he had lost a telescope on a seat in the ladies' waiting room and had stepped out onto the platform for a minute. When he returned the telescope was gone. As it contained some Christmas gifts he was very anxious to recover it.

MACAULEY CASE WAS DISMISSED BY JUDGE

Parties in Matter Reach Agreement and Examination Was Discontinued.

On motion of the district attorney this morning, the examination of Mrs. Ida Macauley, who was arrested on a charge of having sold the furniture of her lodger, J. H. Hungerford, was discontinued today and the case dismissed. Following Mr. Hungerford's testimony yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Macauley was placed on the stand. She told the same story as the complaint without with the exception that she alleged that the agreement was that Mr. Hungerford was to purchase the furniture and take his pay out in board, which he had done. The exact state of the financial relations between the two was very uncertain, they having made up an account at one time last summer, but neither knew what the amount was so far back. Mrs. Macauley was very nervous while on the stand, this being her first experience in a court and her replies were so low that they could hardly be heard. When the court adjourned late in the afternoon Mrs. Macauley and Mr. Hungerford talked the matter over together and it was agreed to drop the suit. The second hand man to whom the furniture had been sold was to be allowed to keep the goods which he had purchased from Mrs. Macauley.

CHRISTMAS STORIES AT LIBRARY TODAY

Little People Enjoy the Tales And Have Christmas Tree This Morning.

"Jim," a much-rehearsed Maltese fellow who is aggrieved at not being given a job as library cat, was not invited to the Christmas story-hour in the broad Memorial children's room of the Carnegie institution this morning and hence was observed morosely peering the sidewalk farther down the block, disgruntled and probably resolved to seek some social circle that will not prove so exclusive.

Doubtless something of this nature passed through "Jim's" sulky thoughts, turning away the genial current of his life and poisoning the very well-springs of his being:

"Oh, dear! I wonder why nobody loves me. I'm always in the way. I'm ostracized, like Aristotle the Just. I'm a male Pariah, an Ishmael, and a voice crying in the wilderness. How doth I stray at solitary—who that would be much with people! She weeps on her cheeks.

"But I won't stay here! I won't! I'll go away—go away to the land of Biddan, where a cat is supposed to possess a transmigrated soul. Oh, dear!"

And thus Pussay sighed, and it is here recounted that for which she sighed:

Multitudes of joyous little children—kiddies diffusing and imbibing the benignant spirit of a Christmas holiday in the bright, cozy room set aside for them by the library trustees.

A Christmas tree stood resplendent in a corner and the boughs thereof were laden with gifts for the three hundred little folk. These gifts were boxes of delectable candy. On a throne behind the desk sat a kind of princess who told most beautiful stories—stories about the Yuletide and fabrics woven to one's heart.

The princess' name was Miss Mary Buckmaster and the ladies of her court were the Misses Agnes Buckmaster, Gertrude Slavayn and Leah Rowe, the last-named being the children's librarian, to whose gracious efforts the entertainment was due.

JANESVILLE IS THE STATE CHAMPION NOW

High School Debating Team to Meet Winners of Illinois Contests in April.

By winning the debate with the Beloit high school team last evening the Janesville debaters unknowingly became state champions.

The debate last evening was part of the plan of Beloit college to have an interstate debating league and it had been arranged for Janesville to meet the Beloit high school team and the La Crosse and Sparta schools to have a similar debate.

The winner of these two contests was to represent Wisconsin in a debate with the winner of the Illinois league. Elgin was to debate Aurora and Rockford was to meet Freeport.

These two debates came off as scheduled but Sparta and La Crosse failed to meet and this default leaves Janesville the state champion to meet the winner of the Illinois contests. This debate will be held in Beloit under the auspices of the college sometime in April next.

Joseph McGowan, William Hyde and George Yahn, speakers for the negative in the debate held last night at Janesville high school auditorium won out over James Carter, Edward Smith and Gregory Burns, achieving victory for the home team over the Beloit debaters.

The subject was, "Resolved, That the U. S. Government should enlarge the Navy by an annual addition of at least three battleships, or their equivalent, for the next ten years," and the Judges, Supt. Thomas H. Lloyd Jones, Watertown public school; Prof. D. O. Kinsman, Whitewater Normal school; Prof. R. H. Stetsen, Beloit college.

This is the same subject that was debated at the two Illinois cities last evening and will be the subject of the final debate when the Illinois and Wisconsin teams meet in Beloit in April.

FLASHLIGHT ALARM CLOCK

Push a Button While Lying in Bed and Light Shows Over Dial.

Applications for patents on electrical novelties pour into the Patent Office at Washington faster than they can be taken care of, greatly surpassing in number any other form of contrivances designed by ambitious inventors. One of the recent distinct novelties in the electrical clock class is a device, designed by a Chicago man, it is placed on the bureau, where the dial can be readily seen by the occupant of the bed. If he

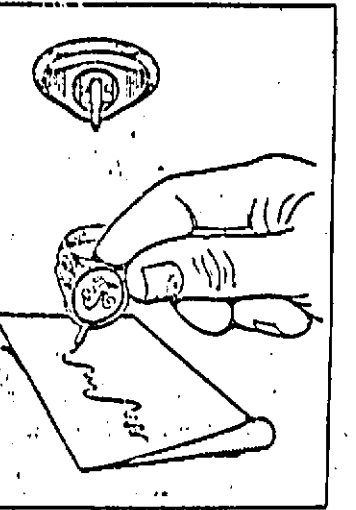

CLOCK LIGHTED FROM BED.

Awakes in the night and wishes to know the time, he merely pushes a push-button attached to a cord which extends from the clock to the bed. The little incandescent lamp just above the dial immediately lights up, so that the time can be instantly seen. It is not necessary to arise from bed to light the electric light—a touch of the button shows the time. The cord can be put under the pillow or in any convenient place. The alarm bell also rings at the hour set, as with the ordinary alarm clock. In addition, a bank is placed on one side of the clock; if anybody tampers with it, the bell rings and continues ringing until shut off.

PENCILS IN RINGS

Tiny Holder Holds Away Out of Sight When Not Needed.

In days of old rings and other ornaments contained cavities for the retention of costly jewels, which could be conveniently dropped into a glass of wine for the convenience of a troubadour or an emperor. Today, rings and necklaces are not so much utilized as devices in addition to that for which they were originally designed. Tiny pencils are concealed within them, where once were the messengers of death, and the wearer how only to remove the ornament, snap the pencil into position and write whatever he may have to set down. The ring, for example, has a cavity at the back of the metal, or whatever design it may bear, and into this cavity the tiny pencil holder fits, and a hinge with a spring to it. The holder is a little tube into which lead can be inserted and which can be replenished as the lead wears down. The wearer of the ring is always prepared for any emergency and such a pencil writes quite well.

NIGHTGOWN FOR THE SICK

Garment Can Be Put on Patient as He Lies Abed.

After experimenting the difficulty of dressing and undressing the bedridden, a Philadelphia lady has devised a nightgown which will be found not only a useful article in hospitals, but in all cases where persons are too ill to be moved. The nightgown is divided in half, the skirt in front, and is cut from head to foot. The patient's arms are slipped through the sleeves and he need be lifted only a few inches and the lower ends of the garment thrust under him. Two loops at the neck are easily fastened and held in place there and at another point, between the shoulder blades, it can be fastened in much the same way. If necessary, with this nightgown a patient whom it would be difficult to change under ordinary circumstances may have his garment changed frequently without any trouble and the nurse, or whoever is in attendance, can make the change undisturbed and in a few minutes.

WORKS AS CRADLE ROCKS

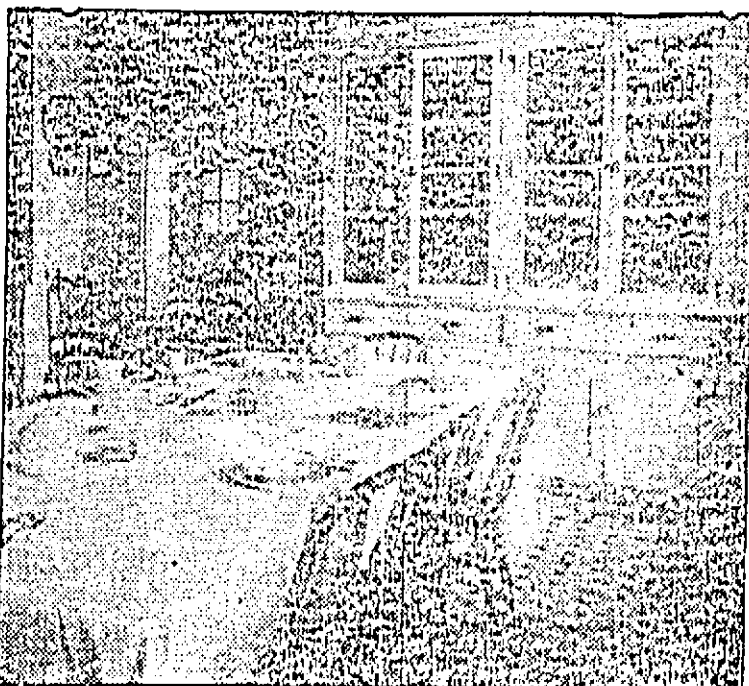

Fan Adds Much to Comfort of Babies in Hot Weather.

An inestimable boon to babies and their mothers is the cradle fan, invented by a Tennessee man. This not only makes life happier for infants in hot weather, but reduces their parents of the excessive necessity of carrying a fan back and forth by hand for an hour at a time. An upright shaft is attached to the head of the cradle in such a way that when the cradle rocks the shaft rotates. At right angles to the top of the shaft are four projects and hanging from the end of the arm is a fan, which is attached a piece of cloth which creates a gentle breeze by fluttering to and fro over the sleeping infant's head as the arm moves. The upright shaft has a footpiece at the bottom by which it may be actuated in one direction, while a spring turns it in the other. Any person who has tried fanning another for any length of time will appreciate how welcome this invention is to mothers who have little babies, and to protect their children from the heat and the annoyance of flies by the manual operation of a palm leaf.

America Alone Has Humming Birds. Though the art museums of Europe may have some treasures of which America cannot boast, our continent has the distinction of a monopoly of the world's supply of humming birds, the gems of all the feathered creation. Of these there are said to be some 400 species—the four hundred of which we will call them—nearly all of which are peculiar to the tropical regions. Only eighteen cross the borders of the United States from Mexico and occur only in our southwestern states. The popular idea is that the hummer lives only on honey gathered from flowers. This is a mistake. The bird does secure some honey, but its food consists mainly of the small insects which frequent the flowers. Some of these insects are injurious to the blossom, and the tiny bird fulfills a useful function in destroying them. That the hummer is insectivorous is also shown by its habit of catching its insects on the wing, which is occasionally observed. H. K. Job in Outing Magazine.

"His Mouthed." "Your speech sounded fine," said the attentive listener, "but, do you know, I can't remember half a dozen words of it."

France's Roads Best in the World. Among the reasons which make the highways of France the best in the world is the requirement that all preliminary roadmaking operations shall be thoroughly performed. When embankments are made the earthwork is built up only a few inches at a time, and the successive strata are leveled and in the neighborhood of masonry rammed. Every ditch is carefully cut at a proper angle, rammed and if necessary paved with stones. Dangerous turns are protected by stone parapets. At each crossroad there are signposts, always in order, and the Touring club of France has established indicator curves, rapid descents, etc. Every railroad crossing is protected by a gate, which has a watchman in charge day and night.—Leslie's Weekly.

Extravagance of the New Yorker. Is not the native New Yorker the play and the plaything of the waiter, the cabman, the ticket speculator and the market man? Does he not pay two prices for food in the glittering Broadway cafe and then, after waiting an hour, receive a cold, dead portion of something that he didn't order and never would think of ordering unless delicious? Does he not recognize that the legal tariff of cab charges is pure fiction and fork over what the weather-bitten Irish burrows on the top of the hansom may demand? Does he not—But, oh, what's the use! The scoundrel weighs him on at birth give false returns, and at his funeral the undertaker charges his estate for extra charges that never show up.—I. S. Cobb in New York World.

Intercepted. "I had a narrow escape from being run over this morning," remarked Johnson. "Hughes, who was with me, only saved me by showering blows on the horse's head with an umbrella. Just as the umbrella broke the animal stopped, and I was pulled out from beneath the wheel of the wagon."

"I didn't notice particularly, and, besides, he broke it to pieces stopping the horse. Why?"

"Nothing; only he borrowed mine yesterday."—Pearson's.

Kriss Kringle's Gift Makers.

Presents For Girls—Dainty Aprons of Dotted Swiles For Coquettish Maids—How Handkerchiefs Are Utilized.

If you know a pretty girl who wishes to win the heart of an ardent admirer, make a dainty apron for her and send it for a Christmas gift. The aprons illustrated are both dainty and useful at the same time. The surplus apron is made of dotted swiles and is finished with bands and ruffles of lace. The pockets and shoulders have decorations of soft wash ribbon. White silk is used for the other model, which is trimmed with hemstitched ruffles and black velvet ribbon.

MATERIALS REQUIRED.

Four yards of china or taffeta silk.
Eight yards of embroidery ruffling.
Eight yards of insertion.
Four yards of taffeta ribbon.

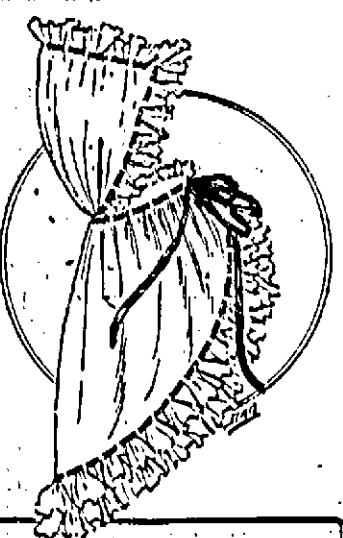

SIMPLE APRON.

Simple, effective designs that any needlewoman can carry out may be copied from newspaper patterns or done for one in the shops.

A pretty girl wearing a coquettish apron adorned with fluffy rosettes always appeals to a man's eye, and if she has a rose nestled behind her left ear so much the better, for the man immediately pictures scenes of domestic bliss where some one he cares a great deal for, will always sit beside a shaded lamp and wear dainty clothes.

Handkerchiefs, too, are made up into attractive aprons put together with embroidered bands of lace.

Really there seems to be no end to the number of ways of using handkerchiefs besides the orthodox fashion, and a new idea is to take a sheer one showing an elaborate but very fine embroidered border and work it in the center with a scattered blossom design, wild roses, perhaps, losing their petals over the surface, or tiny bunches of buttercups here and there carelessly arranged. When complete it is applied diametrically to a square of fine cambric, the material being cut away underneath. Backed by a second piece of cambric it becomes a very dainty pillow for either for a baby carriage or as a head rest for an invalid. A narrow heading is sewed all around the edge of the pillow and is threaded with ribbon matching the embroidery. A narrow hemstitched fine cambric ruffle completes an exceedingly pretty cover, which in the shops would bring a very high price, yet, made at home, possibly the handkerchief would be the only outfit.

Linen Hair Receiver.

A pretty hair receiver to give a girl for Christmas is of heavy white or cream linen. The edge is padded and scalloped and is fastened over with two buttons and buttonholes. The design is worked in the solid satin stitch. A rosette of ribbon with loop and ends finishes the receiver.

DOODLES' SOCIAL STRIDES

Doodles threw down his pencil in desperation.

"Say, what in the world is the use of trying to prove that all the angles of an equilateral triangle are equal when you can see they are by looking at them?" he demanded.

Doodles' sister smiled from the superior height of her college education. "But you can't depend upon the eye," she replied, "in establishing the great mathematical truths."

"Aw," interrupted Doodles with a very audible yawn, "the fellow who made up geometry ought to be ducked in an ice hole."

"I think you aren't in the mood for working to-day," suggested Doodles' sister.

"I should say not," declared Doodles. "Say, you don't catch me again staying at home on Friday afternoon getting my work for Monday. I'd have gone to the social, only I didn't want to ask a girl. What do you have to do, anyway, when you ask a girl to go to a dance with you?"

"Well," said Doodles' sister, smiling up from her Irish crochet work, "of course, you have to dance with her and—"

"I know that," interrupted Doodles. "I mean about the program and all that. I suppose if you take her you have to go home with her."

"It's the polite way," agreed Doodles' sister. "You must help fill her program and dance with her."

Doodles burst into a fit of laughter. "That's not the way 'Shorty' Todd did," he said. "Shorty took a girl to a

"I'm Not Going to Be a Lobster."

dance and got mad at her because she told him that he ought to learn how to reverse. He sneaked away and left her there at the dance and she went and cried about it."

Doodles laughed at that he swung both legs over the top of the writing desk, falling off his chair as a result.

"Can't you keep still and do your geometry?" asked Doodles' sister.

"Naps," responded Doodles, cheerfully picking up the vase he had knocked down. "What gets me is what to talk about all the time to the girl. Why, some of the fellows can talk a whole bunch of girls and make them all laugh. Well, I wouldn't take the trouble to make an idiot of myself for a lot of silly girls."

"Say, I guess I'll blow over to Fat Price's. The social doesn't begin until four and it's only three now."

Dinner was on the table when Doodles came in, flushed, enthusiastic and hungry.

"I went to the social," he announced to the family.

"I thought you didn't like girls," chided Doodles' sister.

"Going in for society?" queried Doodles' father, with a twinkle in his eye.

Doodles dropped several handfuls of crackers into his soup. "I took a girl, all right," he said. Then he reddened to the roots of his hair, as the family gave a shout of laughter.

"Well, I'm not going to be a lobster any longer," protested Doodles, with a suggestion of a swagger in his manner. "I tell you, Fat Price wasn't in it to-day. I went over with him and two girls and they both said I could beat him all hollow dancing. I'm going to take Fat's best girl next week and he's awful mad. Say, dad, some of the fellows are going to have tuxedos for the quarterly dance and I don't see why I shouldn't have one."

"Look here, young man," said Doodles' father, with the twinkle gone out of his eye. "I'm sending you to school to acquire a fair proportion of common sense, but I'm afraid you are losing sight of that purpose. Suppose you make a conquest of your geometry before you attempt any feminine conquests."

Doodles looked subdued and an uncomfortable silence prevailed at the table for a few seconds. Then, suddenly, Doodles' face cleared and he became sunny again.

"Well, say, dad, how about the football team? Don't I get those?" he demanded.

"That's a different matter," replied Doodles' father. "We'll get those tomorrow."—Chicago Daily News.

Xmas Presents For Mere Man.

Homemade Offerings That Will Appeal to the Masculine Heart—A Bachelor's Roll—Latest Collar Box.

The average male is usually a very difficult individual to enter to in the way of Christmas presents. The designs illustrated are likely to prove acceptable, especially the bachelor's roll, to the unvisited male condemned to sew on his buttons. For its manufacture a strip of black cloth is serviceable material to use. As the picture shows, it consists of a straight strip

MATERIALS REQUIRED.
Overlength yard of black cloth.
Overlength yard of white flannel.
Card of white buttons.
Pair of scissors.
Piece of linen tape.
Needle.

A BACHELOR'S ROLL. Sew the other circle on the other end to match, then make the neckline, also of flannel. Secure a strip across the roll from one side to the other, as seen in the illustration, sew some buttons to these, then sew on a strip of narrow tape across the roll through which a pair of scissors can be slipped. Finish off the ends neatly, and the little roll is complete.

Almost any man is pleased with a collar box as a Christmas present, and one of the latest designs is illustrated. In its best form leather is the material used, but any strong fabric will answer the purpose. The box consists of a bag stiffened at the lower part and sewed to a circle of cardboard large enough to accommodate the collars. The edges of the stiffened portion are ornamented with fancy cord, while a cord run through a casing draws the bag up. The word "Collars" may be embroidered on one side or merely the initials. If made of leather the cords should be passed through slits cut at regular intervals.

A cuff case is arranged to match the collar bag, the two making a most attractive set. The stamped material comes in two pieces, front and back, which have ends arranged to fold over and fasten with snaps on the front. This allows the case to be opened at both ends, which is often a great convenience. The case is lined with a handsome green moleskin which comes with the outfit. One skin each of the silk of the different shades is required for working.

A Stocking Novelty.

In wondering what to give a girl friend for Christmas do not forget that a pair of silk stockings always proves acceptable. Black and white are the most popular choices for a gift, as in buying colored stockings it is necessary to know the shade of the gowns and shoes that are to be worn with them. If, however, you want something a little more elaborate, there are black silk stockings with colored tops and insets on the hamp to match that are new and popular with young women who are not conservative as to the dressing of their feet.

What to Give.

A little desk ornament consisting of penholder, clip holder and paper weight all in one.

Sachets of fancy ribbon attached to elaborately constructed girdles all stirred and gathered.

Smokers' sets in the form of human skulls, consisting of cigar holder, ash receiver, match safe, etc.

Wicker chairs made on very massive lines and finished with seats and backs of grain leather studded with heavy brass nails.

Small brass tablets about 4 by 4 inches bearing various mottoes and well known sentiments, these being mounted on plaques of dark colored wood.

FATAL BATTLE IN A JAIL.

City Marshal Shot and Another Man Killed by Prisoners.

Higbee, Mo., Dec. 19.—Frank Cain, city marshal, was shot and probably fatally wounded and Elmer Magruder was instantly killed Friday night in the city jail by three men whom Cain had arrested on a charge of robbing a railway station at Salisbury, Mo. The men gave the names of Fred Anderson and James and Bud Drenor of Des Moines, Ia. After locking the men in cells Cain was not certain that he had all of their weapons, and he and Magruder went back to make a search. As soon as the marshal opened one of the cell doors, one of the men began shooting, killing Magruder and shooting Cain through the right lung. Another prisoner fired at Cain, and the marshal, returning the fire, shot the prisoner in the arm. One of the three escaped in the excitement.

Fleeing Prisoner Is Shot.

Waterloo, Ia., Dec. 19.—John Lawrence, alias John Brown, was arrested Friday on a warrant held by Detective H. G. Webster of Indianapolis, Ind., for defrauding banks at Corydon, Ind. On the way to the Security Savings bank, where Lawrence got an alleged worthless check for $310 cashed, the prisoner broke away and ran. City Detective Houston gave pursuit and shot at him, one bullet entering his lungs and one hitting him in the leg. His condition is precarious.

Asks $5,450,000 for Canal Work.

Washington, Dec. 19.—A request for an urgent deficiency appropriation of $5,450,000 to carry on the work on the isthmian canal at the present rate during the balance of the fiscal year, and for new projects, was received by the house Friday from the secretary of war. Last year a deficiency appropriation of $11,000,000 was made.

Test Case Against Science Healers.

Warrensburg, Mo., Dec. 19.—The trial on criminal charges against two Kansas City Christian Science healers was begun in the circuit court here Friday. It is expected that the case will ultimately go to the supreme court as a test of the statutes on Christian Science.

Russian Loan Approved.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—The council of empire Friday unanimously approved the new loan of $223,000,000.

Artisan Wells.
The theoretical explanation of the phenomenon is easily understood. The secondary and tertiary geological formations often present the appearance of immense basins, the boundary or rim of the basin having been formed by an upheaval of adjacent strata. In these formations it often happens that a porous stratum, consisting of sand, sandstone, chalk or other calcareous matter, is included between two impermeable layers of clay so as to form a flat porous U tube, continuous from side to side of the valley, the outcrop on the surrounding hills forming the mouth of the tube. The rain filtering down through the porous layer to the bottom of the basin forms there a subterranean pool, which, with the liquid or semiliquid column pressing upon it, constitutes a sort of huge natural hydrostatic bellows. Sometimes the pressure on the superincumbent crust is so great as to cause an upheaval or disturbance of the valley. It is obvious, then, that when a hole is bored down through the upper impermeable layer to the surface of the lake the water will be forced up by the natural law of water seeking its level to a height above the surface of the valley, greater or less, according to the elevation of the level in the feeding column, thus forming a natural fountain on precisely the same principle as that of most artificial fountains, where the water supply comes from a considerable height above the jet.

A Perfumed Caravan.
Everybody knows how subtle, penetrating and permanent is the rich perfume of attar of roses. The larger part of the world's supply of this delicious scent is made in Persia, where there are many hundreds of acres devoted to the cultivation of roses for this purpose. At certain seasons of the year long caravans of donkeys, laden with attar, and under guard of soldiers to protect the rich booty from attacks by robbers, journey from central Persia to the little port of Bushire, whence it is exported to Bombay. Other donkey trains similarly escorted proceed to ports on the Caspian sea, which, after Hindustan, are the largest consumers of the costly luxury. When the wind is in the right direction the approach of one of these caravans is announced by the scent long before it can be seen, and the line of its progress can be traced by the odor for days after it has passed by.

Pirates of the Caspian.
The Turcoman dwellers in central Asia are terrible robbers. They are also slave dealers, selling all the prisoners whom they make in war or in their thieving raids. Besides plundering by land, they carry on their evil work by water, for they have a number of pirate ships on the Caspian sea which lie in wait for Russian and Persian vessels. They seize all the goods on board these ships, and the unfortunate crews are sold into slavery. The chief markets for slaves are Khiva and Bokhara. Sometimes they have a difficulty in finding purchasers for all their captives if these have been numerous, and they have been known to dispose of a Persian prisoner for a sum equal to 18 pence of British money. They keep many slaves to till their fields and treat them most cruelly.—London Answers.

The Crack in the Plate.
There was company to dinner at Nellie's house in North Broad street, and the diners were enjoying the first course, which consisted of oyster soup. Nellie made away with hers for some time in silence until she had nearly cleaned the plate, when she suddenly paused and, looking at her mother across the table, said in a stage whisper: "Mamma, what you sark? Doro's a hair in the soup!" "Hush, Nellie," said mamma, frowning. "It's nothing but a crack in the plate." Nellie moved the bowl of her spoon back and forth over the supposed crack and then exclaimed triumphantly: "Kin a crack move?"—St. Louis Republic.

A Diplomatic System.
"To what, sir," we asked a middle aged, happily married man recently, "do you attribute the success you have made of your married life?" "It's a bit of elementary wisdom," my son," he replied. "When my wife is in the wrong, I agree with her, and all is well. When she is in the right, I argue against her; she emerges triumphant, proves me foolish, feels good all day—and again all is well. Learn this, my son, 'ere you marry.'—Cleveland Leader.

An Oversight.
"I want to pay this bill," he said at the hotel bar, "but I think you have made a slight error here in my favor. I've been reading over the extras, and I cannot find that you have charged anything for telling me you thought it might rain."

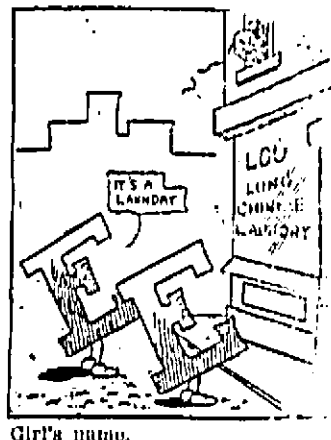

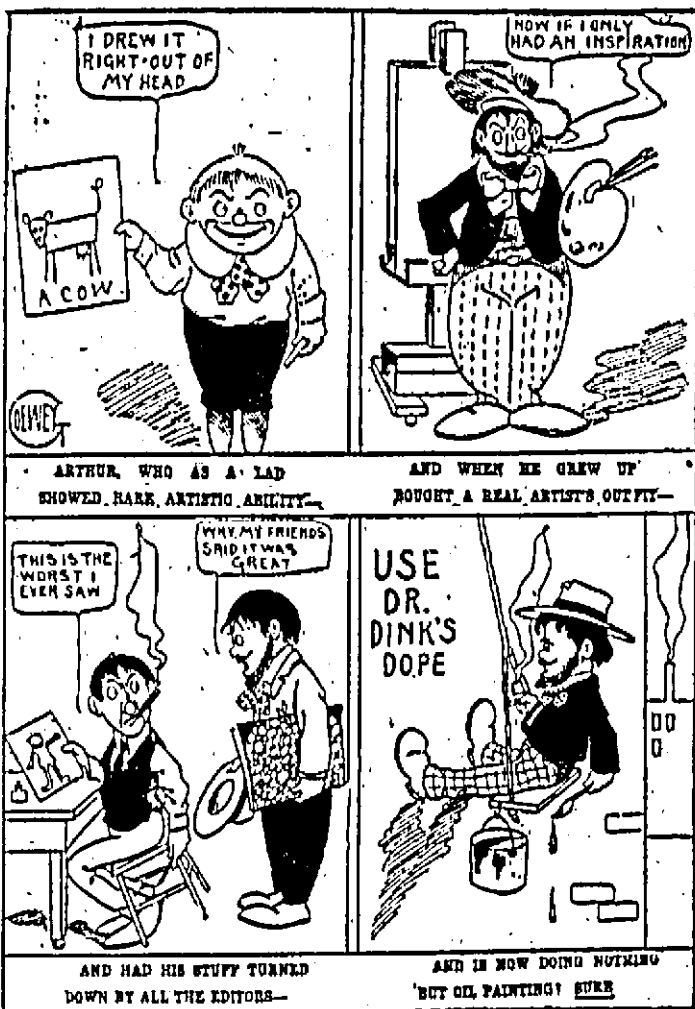

Probably.
"The Ideal" exclaimed Mrs. Keadley. "I wonder why that woman is watching me so?" "Probably," replied her husband, "she's trying to find out why you are staring at her."—Exchange.

The Time to Call.
Mrs. Dunleigh—"It is very singular that your mother always happens to call on me when I am out." Little Missie Dunleight—"Oh, we can see from our front window whenever you go away."

Is not every day the two confuses of two entities for every man? Lines of influences from all the past and stretching onward into all the future do intersect them.—Carlyle.

Few Real Wants.
"If it were possible to simplify life to the uttermost how little one really wants."—(Gloria Joly).

DO YOU REMEMBER

Girl's name.

Goat's $15,000 Meal.
A peasant followed by a goat walked into the local bank at Anrilac to pay in some money. As he was going out a clerk noticed that the goat had a piece of paper in his mouth. He vaulted over the counter and caught the animal just in time to prevent it swallowing a bond worth $15,000 which it had nibbled off the counter.

Washington Apples Famous in Europe.
Ernest Panu of Helsinki, Finland, who arrived in Seattle the other day, has been making an investigation of conditions in the central fruit growing sections of Washington, particularly in the Yakima and Wenatchee valleys, with a view to influencing emigration from his native country. The fame of Washington, he says, has spread throughout Europe and the possibilities of fruit growing are acting as a strong incentive for the discontented classes of the old countries to head this way.—Seattle Times.

Sorry He Came.

To one who is in the role of host there can be no more bitter rebuke than to have my guest, or even chance caller, go out from the portals with the feeling that he is sorry he came—that he is depressed rather than uplifted, saddened rather than gladdened, and in a mood of discord rather than harmony. For all personal association should leave behind it a lingering charm, as of something sweet and gracious. When a meeting does not do this some one is to blame.—Home Chat.

Dear Santa Claus:

I am a good little boy seven years old. I go to school and bring in wood for mamma and help papa do his chores. I would like you to bring me 2 candy pipes an orange a pencil tablet and a watch and chain and some nuts—I have a brother please bring him something.

Good bye Santa

Willie McCann,

Milton, Wis., R. R. 11.

Dear Santa—

I want a table, a doll, some doll clothes and a pair of skates. I would like a pony if you have one. I am a good girl and I am eight years old.

Marion Hanson,

226 Washington St.

Edgerton, Wis., Nov. 27, 1908.

It is coming on toward Xmas and I am beginning to think that it is time for me to write to you and tell you where I live and what I want you to bring me. I am a little boy six years old and I live about three and one-half miles east of Edgerton. I go to school nearly every day.

I want you to bring me a mouth-blown sled, a rubber ball, a drum, a cap, candy, nuts, and fruit. I hope there will be lots of snow so you can get along sooner. I guess this is all I have to say now so will say good-bye. I am one of your little boys.

Frederick Condon.

Gymnastics of the Eye.
I, too, see that painting and sculpture are gymnastics of the eye, its training to the theories and curiosities of its function. There is no statue like this living man, with his infinite advantage over all ideal sculpture, of perpetual variety. What a gallery of art have I here! No mannerist made these varied groups and diverse original single figures. Here is the artist himself improvising, grim and glad, at his block. Now one thought strikes him, now another, and with each moment he alters the whole air, attitude and expression of his clay. Away with your nonsense of oil and easels, of marble and chisels; except to open your eyes to the witchcraft of eternal art, they are hypocritical rubbish.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Electricity and Railroads.
There are now in the United States almost 40,000 miles of electrical railroads, not including the former steam railroads which are using this power at the terminals. There are plenty of men living who remember when there were not so many miles of steam railroads in the country. The trolley, which was at first a purely urban institution, has become a competitor with steam, and it seems certain that a few generations hence electricity will be the great motive power on all railroads unless some invention of a superior quality is brought out to supplant both.

Unworthy.
"My dear friend, I beg you to lend me $50," wrote a needy man to an acquaintance, "and then forget me forever. I am not worthy to be remembered."—Philippines Express.

A Look Ahead.

"Last year, two weeks before Christmas," said Colonel Royan, "I called my colored porter into the office and said to him: 'George, Christmas will be here in another fortnight.'"
"Yes, sah,"
"You like chicken papaw for your Christmas dinner, of course?"
"Powerful well, sah."
"Well, I'll see that you have a pair of chickens the day before."
"Thanks, sah."
"You see," continued the Colonel, "I had a hundred fine chickens in my coop and I wanted George to keep hands off. It would be cheaper to buy him a couple than to turn him loose in the henery. Well, nothing more was said until the morning before Christmas day. Then I got up to find all of my chickens gone. There had been a frost during the night, and I had no trouble in tracking the thief. The tracks led right to George's cabin, and there I found the misplaced bodies of all six. George was there, and I asked:
"Well, sir, what does this mean?"
"I took de chickens, Kurnel," he admitted.

"Didn't I tell you that I would provide you with a pair today?"
"Dised, but you did, sah."
"And do you think I would lie to you?"
"No, sah, but you see, Kurnel, de price of chickens was gwine up and up and up all de time, and I reckoned dey would git to such a figger dat it would bankrupt you and I should lose my place. 'Kese me, sah, but in takin' your chickens I believe I has saved you from de most powerful failure dat has taken place since de time of de war!"

KNOX FOR PREMIER

Senator Accepts Portfolio of State Under Taft.

PRESIDENT-ELECT IS PLEASED

Announces the Appointment and Invites Pennsylvania to Augusta to Advise Him—Man for Attorney Generalship Not Yet Chosen.

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 10.—Booming with pleasure, President-elect Taft announced Friday evening that he had appointed Philander C. Knox, United States senator from Pennsylvania, as secretary of state in his cabinet.

The announcement followed the receipt by Mr. Taft of a telegram which came late in the afternoon conveying the information from Mr. Knox that he would accept the premiership of the Taft cabinet.

Taft Is Highly Gratified.
"I feel that I am to be congratulated in securing the services of Senator Knox in my cabinet," said Judge Taft in making the announcement. "In selecting a secretary of state I wanted first, a great lawyer, and second, a man who would fill the public eye, not only here but abroad, as a man who stands out prominently as a great American."

"Mr. Knox was a great attorney general; he was a prominent candidate for the presidency, and he is recognized in the senate and elsewhere as one of the great lawyers of that body."

Calls Knox to Advise Him.
Judge Taft also feels that from a political viewpoint the selection of Mr.

Knox is most happy. He explained that there was often a feeling that the state of Pennsylvania, with its assured Republican majorities, was slighted in the matter of recognition in the high councils of the party. That this will not be the case in the next administration was indicated by the announcement by Mr. Taft that he should invite Senator Knox to come to Augusta that he might consult him freely with reference to filling other places in his cabinet.

In fact, he said that he felt the need of such advice as he should be able to obtain from Mr. Knox regarding not only the cabinet, but many matters preliminary to the beginning of his administration. That Mr. Knox's influence will be potent was freely admitted by Mr. Taft.

Wickham Not Yet Named.
Regarding the report that George W. Wickham of New York would be attorney general in his cabinet, Mr. Taft said that he had not yet determined on any one definitely for the attorney generalship. It is his desire to fill this place with an administrative genius who will accomplish a reorganization of the department as well as the legal phases of the department of commerce and labor and the interstate commerce commission to the end that the work of these three branches of the government may be co-ordinated.

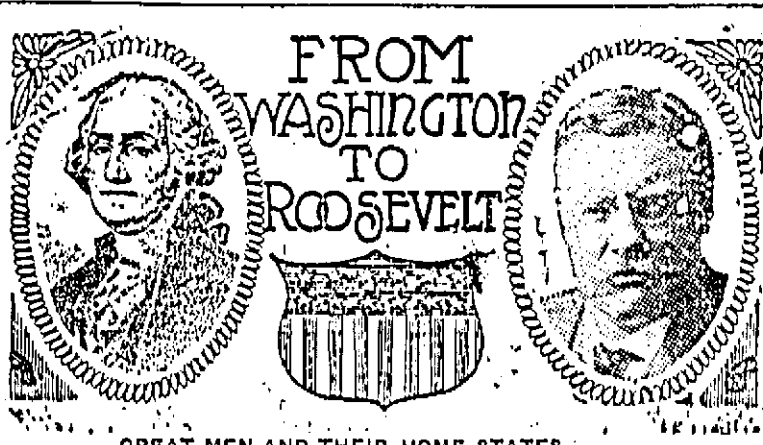

Twelve Drink Poisoned Water.
Danville, Ky., Dec. 10.—Twelve people were poisoned as the result of drinking poisoned water at Campbellville, southwest of here, Friday, the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Brent Powell, together with Mr. and Mrs. William Denson and their two children, who were the guests of the Powells, being the victims. All may recover.

Blown-Out Shot Caused Disaster.
Washington, Pa., Dec. 10.—That the explosion in the Murfreesburg mine of the Pittsburgh-Butte Company on November 18, when 154 lives were lost, was caused by a blown-out shot which ignited gas and dust, was the verdict returned Friday by a coroner's jury.

Read the Want Ads.

Another president and vice president have just been elected and already the president-elect is casting about for the men to fill cabinet positions. With this in view it is interesting to note many pertinent facts concerning the presidents and vice presidents and members of their cabinets in the past.

One of the most interesting facts to each state is the representative that state has had in presidential cabinets under the appointments of the various presidents. We find there have been 293 men appointed to cabinet positions since Washington. This does not include frequent instances where the same man was reappointed to the same department by two or three different presidents but does include his appointment to a different cabinet position. For example, we find that George Bruce Cortelyou has served three times in the cabinet, counted three times in the total number. Out of these appointments New York naturally leads the other states. Thirty-six of her sons have been selected to fill cabinet positions; Massachusetts is second, with thirty; Pennsylvania is a close third, with twenty-eight. The predominance of appointments have come from the East.

Among the western states we find California has had two men in the cabinet and one of these, Mr. Metcalf, has served in two positions. Colorado was represented in the department of the interior by Mr. Teller. We find a number of these states have never had a representative in the cabinet. Arizona, for example, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. All these have never been represented. In the South the state of Texas, the largest in the Union, has never had a representative. Likewise Florida. In the east the diminutive though important state of Rhode Island has never been favored. In the middle west most of the states have had from one to six different cabinet appointments.

To date, including the present newly appointed secretary of the navy, Mr. Truman H. Newberry, there have been thirty-seven secretaries of state, forty-two secretaries of the treasury, fifty-three secretaries of war, twenty-four secretaries of the interior, thirty-nine secretaries of the navy, six secretaries of agriculture, forty-two postmaster generals, forty-seven attorney generals, and three secretaries of commerce and labor.

The state of Virginia, so proud of her many prominent sons, has furnished Uncle Sam with statesmen and fighters. Six of the secretaries of state, four attorney generals, six secretaries of war and four secretaries of the navy have been from Virginia.

Among the presidents and vice-presidents, eleven states have furnished the twenty-five men who have been presidents, and twelve states the twenty-six vice-presidents. Virginia held the proud distinction of being the home of presidents up to the time of President Roosevelt's election, when a vice-president was chosen by ballot in having given five sons to fill the presidential chair. Ohio is justly proud of her five presidential representatives, including Taft. Tennessee has been honored by the selection of three of her sons, and Massachusetts has given two.

Nearly one-third of the vice-presidents have come from New York state and this has been frequently due to a condition like the present case, when a vice-president was chosen by the convention to conciliate the east and make votes for the president. While Ohio has furnished five presidents she has not furnished a single vice-president. With the exception of Stevenson, of Illinois and Cullax, of Florida, and Fairbanks of Indiana all the other vice-presidents have been selected from the extreme east.

During the last convention there was much talk, especially in the Democratic convention of selecting a western vice-president, to make votes for Bryan in the west and as the years roll on this will be more generally the case, for the west is becoming a more potent factor in the popular vote with each succeeding election.

Chester—What would you like to have Santa Claus bring you a present?
Kitty—No, I would prefer a present that I could take down to the store next day and trade back for something useful.

His Christmas Present.
"If I could be sure of such a Christmas present this year as I got last year I should be feeling fine," remarked the salesman in the music store as the holiday days were under discussion.
"Somebody make you a gift of a pair of pants warmers?" was asked.
"Why, it was a queer, queer thing. Several reporters have tried to interview me about it, but knowing that the pants he would call me a liar, I have refused to talk. I have an old uncle in Westchester county. He's as silly and easily as they make 'em, and he's also well off. He was in here in December of last year, and in a joking way I observed that I should expect a Christmas present of him. He grinned and replied that he would remember me. Two days before Christmas he telephoned me to come and get my present.

"And you went?"
"Yes, I jumped right along. I was full of curiosity to know what he had for me. So we went to see what he had for me. It was an old grooming of a horse on its last legs. He made a great deal about the gift, and though I was knocked out, I set the end of the butter and led the old wreck away. I intended to take him down the road a bit and turn him loose to die."

"And what happened?"
"I had led him along for half a mile, when he began coughing and grunting, and two minutes later he lurched forward, and fell dead. As he went down I heard the click of money, and, calling to a farmer, I gave him $2 to perform an autopsy on the carcass. Are you ready for the surprise?"

"You found a harness and wagon inside of him?"
"No, I didn't. I found exactly $2,000 in gold."

"Which your 'cranky' uncle had fed him to give you a surprise?"
"Which my 'cranky' uncle didn't know a thing about. No, he didn't. The old horse had picked up the yellow boys somewhere else. And when my uncle said: 'No, the pants I sent him, higher'n a kite, queer thing, Great mystery. Cheer for Homburg Shoes.' With it would happen this year, but I hardly believe it now. My uncle had only two other old groomings left, and, on killing them, he found their stomachs empty. Neither of them contained even a few white worms."

HUNTING FOR ANNIS

Testimony Is Hains Brothers Were Seeking Him.

GOOD WITNESSES FOR STATE

One Swears He Pointed Out the Victim at Thornton's Request, and Another Says Defendant Drove Him Back with Pistol.

Flushing, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Important testimony for the state in the Hains trial was given Thursday by Frederick A. Storm, a real estate man, who said that just before W. E. Annis called up to the dock where he was killed, Thornton Hains asked him to point out Annis.

"Thornton Hains stopped talking about real estate and asked me where Annis was," said the witness. "I pointed out Annis' boat, then walking toward the boat." The shooting of Annis followed.

It is upon this statement of Storm that the prosecution hinges its contention that the Hains brothers hunted up Annis for the purpose of killing him and that the real estate inquiry at the yacht club was a blind.

Charles Birchfield's Story.

Other important testimony was given by Charles Birchfield, a friend of Annis, who declared that Thornton Hains drove him back with a drawn revolver when he sought to stop the shooting.

Mr. Birchfield's evidence is held by the prosecution to support the gravamen of the state charge that Thornton J. Hains was a principal and aided his brother in the slaying of Annis.

"Stand back. He knows what he is doing. Don't interfere or you will get the same thing," were the words that Birchfield testified that Thornton Hains used as he pointed his revolver at him. Birchfield further declared that Thornton Hains drove Mrs. Annis away from her wounded husband with a revolver.

Mrs. William E. Annis, the widow of the victim of the yacht club tragedy, gave brief testimony to establish the death of her husband. She will take the witness stand again.

Bare Out Model of Tragedy.

When court opened Justice Crane announced that he had decided against the use of the model which the defense had prepared to show the relative positions of the parties at the time of the shooting of Annis. "It is clear," he said, "that this model is out of all proportion and gives a false impression to the jury. I would suggest that you obtain a photograph to show its correctness and then it may be used."

Mosque in Railroad Carriage.

The Hojias railway, among other things, will contain a carriage fitted up as a mosque, where pilgrims will be able to perform their devotions during the journey to the sacred cities. Externally the praying carriage is only distinguishable from the other carriages by a minaret six feet high. The interior is luxuriously fitted. The floor is covered with the richest of Persian carpets, while around the sides are verses from the Koran appropriate to the pilgrimage and in letters of gold. A chart indicates the direction of Mecca at one end, and at the other are placed four vessels for holding water for the ritual ablutions. Most of the carriages are of foreign make, but the "wagon mosque" was built in Constantinople.

Wages.

The great white czar gets a salary of $25,000 a day, the sultan of Turkey $15,000, the emperor of Austria $12,000, the kaiser $11,250, the king of Italy about $7,200, the king of England $6,270, Leopold of Belgium $1,500, and President Roosevelt $137. Napoleon's salary was about $15,000 a day. The president of France gets about $617 a day.—N. Y. Press.

SOFT ANSWER TO TURN AWAY SOLONS' WRATH

President Said to Be Planning Disavowal of Intention to Offend Lawmakers.

Washington, Dec. 19.—President Roosevelt, according to reliable reports, has remembered that a soft answer turneth away wrath and is planning to surprise congress by his reply to the request of the house that he furnish facts to justify his language concerning the lawmakers in relation to the secret service. It is understood Mr. Roosevelt not only will disavow any intention of offending or insulting congress, but will also assert that the secret service men have not been used to probe the doings of congressmen.

It is known that the president has had much information at hand tending to indicate certain delinquencies on the part of congressmen which do not quite reach a legal standing, and his friends declare it would be a mistake to carry on a personal contest with members of congress without such evidence. It is understood the president is not particularly displeased with the action of the house, which, while not entirely to his liking, is considered temperate. "There is no doubt that congress would accept a mild reply from the president in the same spirit, but that hot shot would be met with the same sort of ammunition."

CASTRO WANTS TO ARBITRATE.

Thinks Venezuela and France Can Settle Their Disputes.

Berlin, Dec. 19.—There is an evident desire on the part of President Castro to effect an arrangement of the outstanding difficulties between Venezuela and France. When asked Friday whether there was a possibility of relations between the two countries being renewed, President Castro authorized a diplomat who is accompanying him to make the following statement:

"I believe it would be very easy to bring about a renewal of relations between Venezuela and France by submitting the questions at issue to arbitration in the usual way adopted when two nations cannot find other means for settling their differences."

President Castro had a lengthy private conference at his hotel Friday with a prominent representative of the German foreign office. As the latter spoke Spanish and not even an interpreter was present the subject matter of the interview is not known. President Castro also received Honor Martin, the minister of Chili to Germany.

INTO THE PRIMITIVE

BY ROBERT AMES BENNET
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

"I suppose, though, we should remember how much Mr. Blake is doing for us, and should try to make the best of the situation."

"It has no best. It is all a beastly muddle," complained Winthrop, and he resumed his nervous scraping at the big leopard skin.

The girl studied his face for a moment, and turned away. She had been trying so hard to forget.

He heard her leave, and called after, without looking up: "Please remember, he said to cook some meat."

She did not answer. Having satisfied her thirst at the spring, she took one of the bamboo rods, with its haggled blackening pieces of flesh, and returned to the fire. After some little experimenting, she contrived a way to support the rod beside the fire so that all the meat would roast without burning.

At first, keen as was her hunger, she turned with disgust from the fishy sun-dried flesh; but as it began to roast, the odor renewed her appetite to full vigor. Her mouth fairly watered. It seemed as though Winthrop and Blake would never come. She heard their voices, and took the bamboo spit from the fire for the meat to cool. Still they failed to appear, and, unable to wait longer, she began to eat. The cub meat proved far more tender than that of the old leopard. She had helped herself to the second place before the two men appeared.

"Hold on, Miss Jenny; fair play!" sang out Blake. "You've set to with-out cooling the dinner-horn. I don't blame you, though. That smells mighty good."

Both men caught at the hot meat with eagerness, and Winthrop promptly forgot all else in the animal pleasure of satisfying his hunger. Blake, though no less hungry, only waited to fill his mouth before investigating the condition of the prospective tree ladder. The result of the attempt to burn the trunk did not seem encouraging to the others, and Miss Leslie looked away, that her face might not betray her, should he have an inkling of her neglect. She was relieved by the cheerfulness of his tone.

"Slow work, this fire business—oh? Guess, though, it'll go faster this afternoon. The green wood is killed and is getting dried out. Anyway, we've got to keep at it till the tree goes over. This spring leopard won't last long at the present rate of consumption, and we'll need the eggs to keep us going till we get the hang of our bow."

"What is that smoke back there?" interrupted Miss Leslie. "Can it be that the fire down the cleft has sprung up again?"

"No; it's your fumigation. You had plenty of brush on hand, so I heaved it into the hole and touched it off. While it's burning out you can put in time gathering ring grass and leaves for a bed."

"Would you and Mr. Winthrop mind breaking off some bamboos for me?"

"What for?"

"I should like to divide off a corner of the place with a wall or screen."

Winthrop tried to catch Blake's eye; but the American was gazing at Miss Leslie's embarrassed face with a puzzled look. Her meaning dawned upon him, and he hastened to reply.

"All right, Miss Jenny. You can build your wall to suit yourself. But there'll be no hurry over it. Until the rains begin, Win and I'll sleep out in the open. We'll have to take turnabout on watch at night, anyway. If we don't keep up a fire some other spotted kitty will be sure to come nosing up the gully."

"There must also be lions in the vicinity," added Winthrop.

Miss Leslie said nothing until after the last pieces of meat had been handed around and Blake sprang up to resume work.

"Mr. Blake," she called, in a low tone; "one moment, please. Would it save much bother if a door was made and you and Mr. Winthrop should sleep inside?"

"We'll see about that later," replied Blake, carelessly.

The girl bit her lip, and the tears started to her eyes. Even Winthrop had started off without expressing his appreciation. Yet he at least should have realized how much it had cost her to make such an offer.

By evening she had her tree-cave-house, she preferred to name it to herself—in a habitable condition. When the purifying fire had burnt itself out, leaving the place free from all odors other than the wholesome smell of wood smoke, she had asked Blake how she could make out the ashes. His advice was to wet them down where they lay.

This was easier said than done. Fortunately the spring was only a few yards distant, and after many trips, with her palm-leaf hat for bowl, the girl carried enough water to sprinkle all the powdery ashes. Over them she strewed the leaves and grass which she had gathered while the fire was burning. The driest of the grass, arranged in a far corner, promised a more comfortable bed than had been her lot for the last three nights.

During the last week she had been careful not to forget the fire at the tree. Yet when, near sundown, she called the third meal of leopard meat, Blake grumbled at the tree, for being what he termed such a confounded tough proposition.

"Good thing there's lots of wood here, Win," he added. "We'll keep this fire going till the blasted thing topples over, if it takes a year."

"Oh, but you surely will not stay so far from the baobab tonight!" exclaimed Miss Leslie.

"Hold hard!" soothed Blake. "You've no license to get the jumps yet a while. We'll have another fire by the baobab. So you needn't worry."

A few minutes later they went back to the baobab, and Winthrop began helping Miss Leslie to construct a bamboo screen in the narrow entrance of the tree-cave, while Blake built the second fire.

As Winthrop was unable to tell time by the stars, Blake took the first watch. At sunset, following the engineer's advice, Winthrop lay down with his feet to the small watch-fire, and was asleep before twilight had deepened into night. Fagged out by the mental and bodily stress of the day, he slept so soundly that it seemed to him he hardly lost consciousness when he was roused by a rough hand on his forehead.

"What is it?" he mumbled.

"Bout one o'clock," said Blake. "Wake up! I ran overtime, 'cause the morning watch is the toughest. But I can't keep 'wake any longer."

"I say, this is a beastly bore," remarked Winthrop, sitting up.

"Um-m," grunted Blake, who was already on his back.

Winthrop rubbed his eyes, rose wearily, and drew a blazing stick from the fire. With this upraised as a torch he peered around into the darkness and advanced towards the spring.

When, having satisfied his thirst, he returned somewhat hurriedly to the fire, he was startled by the sight of a pale face gazing at him from between the leaves of the bamboo screen.

"My dear Miss Genevieve, what is the matter?" he exclaimed.

"Hush! Is he asleep?"

"Like a top."

"Thank heaven! Good-night."

"Good-night—or I say, Miss Genevieve—"

But the girl disappeared, and Winthrop, after a glance at Blake's placid face, hurried along the cleft to stack the other fire. When he returned he noticed two bamboo rods which Blake had begun to shape into bow staves. He looked them over, with a sneer at Blake's seemingly unskillful workmanship; but he made no attempt to finish the bows.

CHAPTER XI.

A Despoiled Wardrobe.

SOON after sunrise Miss Leslie was awakened by the snap and dull crash of a falling tree. She made a hasty toilet and ran out around the baobab. The burned tree, eaten half through by the fire, had been pushed over against the cliff by Blake and Winthrop. Both had already climbed up and now stood on the edge of the cliff.

"Hello, Miss Jenny!" shouted Blake. "We've got here at last. Want to come up?"

"Not now, thank you."

"It's easy enough. But you're right. Try your hand again at the cutlets, won't you? While they're frying we'll get some eggs for dessert. How does that strike you?"

"We have no way to cook them."

"Roast 'em in the ashes. No long!"

Miss Leslie cooked breakfast over the watch-fire, for the other had been scattered and stamped out by the men when the tree fell. They came back in good time, walking carefully, that they might not break the eggs with which their pockets bulged. Between them, they had brought a round dozen and a half. Blake promptly began stowing all in the hot ashes, while Winthrop related their little adventure with unwonted enthusiasm.

"You should have come with us, Miss Genevieve," he began. "This day it is glorious on the cliff top. Though the rock is bare, there is a fine view—"

BRITISH STEAMER IS SUNK IN A COLLISION

Freighter Rammied by Tramp Off New York Harbor—All the Crew Saved.

New York, Dec. 19.—The tramp steamer Catalone Friday night ran into and sunk the freighter Daghestan of England just outside New York harbor. The members of the Daghestan's crew were picked up by the Catalone and soon afterward were taken on board by the pilot boat New York.

Following the accident the Catalone anchored outside the bar and, as the New York also remained outside, it is not known here to what extent the tramp was damaged. The Daghestan was owned by the Hindustan Steamship Company and registered 3,400 tons gross.

The Daghestan sailed late Friday for Marseilles. The Catalone was inbound from Boston. In command of Capt. Glover she had sailed from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The vessel is of 3,785 gross tonnage and owned by the English & American Shipping Company of London.

Intelligence of the collision and loss of the Daghestan was brought to Quarantine by Capt. Rogers of the steamer Saporanza. A heavy fog started in the lower harbor in the evening and in the thick of the mist the vessel met. The Catalone was proceeding slowly and was 500 yards south of the sea end of Gedney channel when the other freighter, which was cautiously seeking the channel entrance, was made out dead ahead and scarcely a ship's length distant. The pilots of both craft simultaneously realized their danger and maneuvered desperately to avoid a collision, but their headway was too great to be checked before the Catalone had rammed a hole in the port quarter of the Daghestan.

Time had been sufficient, however, for the crew of the Britisher to get on deck and at the moment of impact several of the men scrambled aboard the tramp. As the Catalone drew away the sea poured into the Daghestan, but the vessel started slowly and in the meantime a lifeboat was launched. The pilot boat New York, hurrying to the side of the sinking vessel, made reasonably certain that the crew had all been taken aboard the Catalone. Later the pilot boat took the rescued off the Catalone.

HOW THEY SMUGGLE CHINESE.

Methods on Mexican Border Revealed by an Oriental.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19.—What the federal authorities believe to be a complete exposure of the methods used in bringing Chinese into this country from Mexico was made in the United States district court Friday by Chin How. He was called as a witness for the government in the case of the three Mexicans charged with smuggling Chinese into the United States. Chin How was arrested, with five other Chinamen and the three defendants, at Imperial Junction last June.

Chin How detailed his arrival in Mexico and his attempt to come to this country, identifying the prisoners as the men who led him and his companions across the border. He said the bargain was made with a Chinaman of Ensenada who made a business of getting Chinese into this country. Chin How said he was to pay the Mexicans $10 to get him to this country.

TWO PRISONERS IDENTIFIED.

State Makes Good Progress in Night Riders' Trial.

Union City, Tenn., Dec. 19.—At the end of the first day's testimony in the night rider trial the state had made material progress. It had introduced testimony covering the details of the murder of Capt. Ranken and also had succeeded in presenting testimony supporting an identification of two of the prisoners as members of the masked band.

Ed Powell was an important factor in the state's behalf. Powell was dragged from his bed the night of the Ranken murder and forced to accompany the band to the Walnut Log hotel, from which Ranken and Taylor were taken. Powell recognized Frank Pehringer as the man who opened Ranken's valise and took out and read

SLAIN BY REJECTED YOUTH.

Young Woman of Somerville, Mass., Murdered on Street.

Somerville, Mass., Dec. 19.—Enraged because his former sweetheart, Miss Maud Hartley, had rejected him, James H. Harmon, the 18-year-old son of Police Sergeant James M. Harmon, shot and killed her on the street here Friday. Miss Hartley was of the same age as her slayer, and was the daughter of Mrs. R. Agnes Hartley, a physician.

When Miss Hartley fell, Harmon lifted the body and threw it on the steps of a nearby store with the remark: "There, I've finished her." He then fled, but half an hour later surrendered to the police. Miss Hartley had recently informed Harmon that she did not care for his attentions because of certain bad habits she heard the boy had acquired.

Two Killed by an Explosion.

Lebanon, O., Dec. 19.—A terrible explosion in the plant of the Senior Powder Company, one mile north of Morrow, this county, Friday, instantly killed Clinton Erie, 35 years old, and Will Union, 23 years old. The glazing mill was wrecked with a loss of $3,000.

OFFICERS OF FLEET FEASTED IN COLOMBO

Guests of Merchants and Planters, Who Gave 15,000 Pounds of Tea to Battleships.

Colombo, Ceylon, Dec. 19.—The Chamber of Commerce and Planters' Association of Ceylon Friday night gave an official banquet in honor of the officers of the United States Atlantic battleship fleet.

Col. Sir Henry Edward McCullum, the governor of Ceylon, in a speech said that it had been the good fortune of Ceylon to accord a warm welcome to the fleet and that its presence would be instrumental in the continuance of peace. He paid a tribute to the exemplary behavior of the American crews ashore.

The chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, in proposing a toast to the American nation, said that President Roosevelt doubtless had many objects in view when he ordered the battleship fleet around the world, and he trusted that the most lasting of these objects would prove to be the consolidation of friendship between the nations.

Rear Admiral Sherry in reply said that in traveling in the king's domains he had been impressed mostly by the absolute solidarity of interests—commercial, political and economical. There was no position possible for the United States in a war where Great Britain was involved, the admiral declared, except that of benevolent neutrality.

In the presentation of 15,000 pounds of tea to the officers and men of the fleet the chairman of the Planters' association expressed his profound admiration of the unparalleled achievement of marshalling the American fleet in a stately procession from sea to sea.

OPPOSE WILSON'S ORDER.

Millers of Nebraska to Make Stand for Bleached Flour.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 19.—The entire milling industry of Nebraska will oppose the recent order of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson prohibiting the transportation and sale of bleached flour in interstate commerce. A meeting will be held in Lincoln in January to oppose this order, which is thought to be a death-blow to millers in the state.

Nebraska millers are forced to grind winter wheat. Only by bleaching can they produce a white flour that ranks well in the market. Bleachers are used in practically all of the mills in the state. It is probable that the millers will be backed in their protest by Nebraska railroads.

The Secret of Happiness.

The secret of happiness in every life is to be doing what you feel you can do best, and to have your own ingenuity. To do what you can do best includes the entire gamut, from housekeeper to social queen, though I should like to turn the gamut upside down by putting the homemaker at the top instead of the bottom of the scale. Your own ingenuity you must have, married or single, if you would take into your life all the happiness it offers, and give out of your life all the happiness it owes the community.—Fall Mall Magazine.

At present he is Kaiser William of Germany, dictating methods to everybody in the empire from generals in the army to the country school teachers.

AN INTERNATIONAL ROMANCE WHICH UNITES A GERMAN COUNT WITH A CHARMING AMERICAN GIRL.

Count Adolph Montgelus and Miss Hazeline, the bride's beautiful home, in which the wedding will take place.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—An international romance is to culminate in the marriage of Miss Hazeline, of this city to Count Adolph Montgelus, of Germany. The bride is a tall, slight, but athletic appearing young man, 35 years of age, with fair complexion and light hair and has a small, well-shaped nose. He is at present visiting the Hazelines in their charming home in this city, where the wedding is to take place Tuesday, December 23. This is not the count's first visit to this country; he was formerly first secretary for the German legation at Washington for a year and a half.

The marriage of Miss Hazeline and Count Montgelus is distinctly a love match and the wedding will be marked by quiet simplicity, the only festivity following the ceremony being a wedding breakfast to the small company who will be present at the wedding. Count and Countess Montgelus of Munich, the former a brother of the bridegroom, are expected to be present and will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Hazeline during their stay here.

DESIDERUS ANNIS TRAGEDY.

Herbert Funke Tells How Capt. Hains Slew His Victim.

Flushing, N. Y., Dec. 12.—The most dramatic story yet told of the slaying of William E. Annis was recounted Friday in the trial of Thornton J. Hains, charged with being a principal with his brother, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., in the killing of Annis when Herbert Funke, a member of the Dayside Yacht club, told how Capt. Hains, lifting the swinging boom of Annis' boat, and calling "Annis," fired several shots at him as he sat at the tiller.

"There was a pause after the first shot, then came four shots in succession, after which came a single shot," declared Funke. "It was after the first shot and before the other shots were fired that Thornton Hains drew his revolver and pointed it at me."

"The prosecution claims that Funke's evidence is another proof of the state's contention that the defendant was a principal and was aiding his brother in carrying out a preconcerted plan to kill Annis. Funke's examination continued all day.

KILLED IN BOXING BOUT.

Philadelphia Led Dies After Opponent Knocks Him Down.

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—James Curran, 18 years old, was killed in a boxing bout with Benjamin Barnett, 17 years of age, at the Broadway Athletic club Friday. The death of Curran came as the climax to a series of amateur try-outs which were witnessed by a large crowd. There had been nine bouts when Curran, who was the sole support of his widowed mother, asked permission to go on.

The boys boxed very evenly in the first round, but in the second Barnett, who had never boxed in public before, began to punish his opponent. He knocked Curran down with a hard blow on the chin. After rising, Curran collapsed. A physician examined him and ordered his removal to the hospital, but he was dead when the institution was reached.

The police arrested Barnett, and Bert Draco and John Haggerty, who acted as seconds to Curran.
